So what is this event celebrating?

- Fellowship
- Recognition
- Opportunity

As a Livery Company, we are in a unique position to bring together some of the brightest minds in our profession and ‘incubate’ some of the best ideas around to create and develop better ways of working, especially in the areas of social investment, charitable work and philanthropy.

As a Modern Company, WCoMC can create strong links with other professions (for example the actuaries, educators, accountants) that address issues such as employability and social mobility more effectively than operating in isolation. Many of our members are attracted by the opportunity to ‘give back’ by leveraging their professional competences to deliver otherwise unaffordable ProBono services to helping Charities without any charge. Bringing together inputs from our members, the resources of our Charitable Fund and our unique relationship with the Cass Centre for Charity Effectiveness creates a powerful engine which we are deploying in projects such as improving trustee awareness and building stronger links with sponsors to leverage greater outcomes from the limited resources available in the UK. Our theme this year is around the role that we as management consultants can play and we will be greeted, educated and entertained through the evening by a combination of our forces charity, the Sea Cadets, and by our speakers.

Our guests include:

- Alan Leaman – CEO of the Management Consultancies Association, our profession and industry
- Edwina Dunn – founder of DunnHumby and the chair of Your Life
- Professor Marianne Lewis – the new Dean of Cass Business School and our ‘livery school’, Cass CCE
- Sheriff Christine Rigden – representing the City of London and the Lord Mayor

Your fellow Freemen and Liverymen look forward to seeing you in a celebration of our contribution to our profession and the achievements of the Civic City. The evening will begin with an Admission Ceremony for our new Freemen and Liverymen, after which you will be able to welcome and congratulate them.
